

Many Enroll in High School During Registration

In the first days registration Friday at the McMillan High School for Juniors and Seniors, 111 persons enrolled for the coming term of school. Freshmen and Sophomores were registered Saturday and indications are that there will be many more of them than the upper-classesmen. Last year a total of 476 students were in attendance at the High School. It is thought that the number this term will equal or exceed the figure of last.

The attendance of the grade schools is also going to be as heavy as usual this year. A great many children are planning to enter there Tuesday when the local schools start.

There has only been one change in the high school faculty for this year. Miss Evelyn Prather, of Columbia, is taking the place of Miss Virginia Pearson who taught history last year. In the grade schools, Miss Van Horn who taught history and geography at the North Side School last year has resigned and will be replaced by Mrs. M. S. West. Mrs. West has been teaching in Kentucky and Mississippi for the last ten years and is well qualified for the position.

Miss Cunningham Writes of Experience in Hospital

The following letter has been received from Miss Adde Cunningham, daughter of S. P. Cunningham, in which she tells of her experience as a nurse in the Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Ledger:— I think I shall never cease being glad I made up my mind to become a nurse! One gets so close to real life—its pleasure and sorrow—its gayer moments or the pathetic little instances which are usually so carefully hidden from even their own friends. You learn life simply—and just as it is—how hard it is sometimes; how impossible, it is at times were it not for the one big thing in it all—No I won't tell you what it is but tis truly the "greatest of these."

Now for a story as I saw it and tis a privilege to really "see" stories—especially when they teach you such lessons of patience, endurance, sweetness, tenderness and consideration; that we should realize and appreciate one another before its too late and we are left with time—only, to regret. Happiness; it seems can stay in the tiniest house and it is worth while—to be kind—to care and be cared for.

Everyone loved my old lady. She was so happy and so witty with her queer little old fashioned brogue. She was born in England, grew from childhood in Scotland but was an American, if you please! She was so good and so jolly we just liked to be in her room and to do things for her. She liked everyone too but most of all she liked "Bobbie." "Bobbie" was a little old thin, gray mustached army sergeant—rather insignificant looking, but he meant everything to her. I asked her once how they had stayed liking each other the long years and she said "Darlin' there be bearin' and forebearin'—Ye must give and take if you want to stay a lovin'."

She had an operation—a serious one and we were very anxious about her. She suffered for days but she was always so patient and kind through it all. The day she was "coming out" from the anesthetic I went to her and asked if there were anything she wanted. She said "No Darlin' I don't need anything but just Me Bobbie—I want him to come—I'll be alright if I just has him to hold on to."

Bobbie came and sat by her the whole day just holding her hand. She with her patient, wistful little smile and he with his thin stooped shoulders—remnants of strength and husky manhood—but still to her as always—her Bobbie.

When I came home and started my letter I couldn't seem to think of a letter—just this little jingle. It isn't a poem—just a rhyme but its my dear old lady and her Bobbie as I saw them.

"ME BOBBIE" He's wrinkled and bent and he's old Just a few more years does life hold, Tho his shoulders are drooped Tis for me he has stooped Me ole man he's a man— And I love him—Me Man.

II We've come a long ways adown' thru the years There's been pain and great sorrow but there's Been trust midst the tears. We just lived for each other These long years together— He's such a comfort to hold to, If there needs to be need to, Me Bobbie — Me Man.

III I members me Laddie in those young days I do As husky and as broad as he was tender, strong and true His hair it was so bonny and his eyes no gray and clear Of their mastery I was certain but was glad to find it there He was big just for to love me And strong just for to shield me Me Bobbie — Me Man!

IV Twas a joy just to console him And in those gray days to mother him Those hours were all our own and the dearest then it was I found that his need was just for me! At twilight or at freside, in darker days or blue Those boyish moods I yearned for and I think he wished it too Sure and two like him, Me Bobbie — Me Man.

V The years have gone on me Bobbie me man Now there's pain and there's sickness and it wants you me man Just to comfort and shield me and new strength to me lend For yer me sweetheart since spring-time And me pal to the end. And we'll trust in the Divine goodness That in the next world that be I'll be waitin' Me Bobbie, when he's A comin' to me For ALWAYS Me Bobbie — Me Man."
